LET US PRAY

Archie H. Hook
Superintendent and Minister

Many theologians and writers of religious books have defined prayer and some of us have probably said, "Ah! this is it!", only to find another explanation that suited us better as we read further. Harry Emerson Fosdick tries to clear the subject by saying that "Prayer is the soul of religion," adding that, "Failure in prayer is the loss of religion itself in its inward and dynamic aspect of fellowship with the Eternal."

Prayer, like a beautifully cut gem, has many facets. Whether we practice them or not we know the value of private prayer, of public prayers, of litanies and responsive prayers, prayers of adoration, thanksgiving, intercession—to name but a few.

Sometimes we might wonder why we cannot see more results from the countless prayers ascending from the hearts and lips of men. Prayers are often serious expressions, usually asking for great achievements. Fulfillments do not generally occur over night. A real answer to our prayer might let us in for more than we ask. If we ask for strength, for example, we must realize that the only way we become strong is through struggle. And we should consider seriously the implications when we ask for "the spirit of Jesus." Many of us would have to change our ideas on the social and economic problems of the day should this prayer be granted

One of the greatest prayer lessons we can learn from the life of Jesus is the art of silence in prayer. Dr. Charles F. Whiston will give specialized leadership in this field at the Minsters' Retreat, April 7-9, at Pilgrim Firs. Dr. Whiston has conducted Retreats where the entire time was spent in silence, without a single word of ordinary conversation. The Committee responsible for this post-Easter Retreat plans to have many extended periods of silence.

How much silence can you stand? Silence is frustrating to some people. One of our ministers, conducting the devotional periods at an Annual Conference session several years ago, made extensive use of silence, but not until after he had tried to prepare the audience for the purposeful use of such time. Some felt this to be the most inspiring series of devotions they had ever experienced, while others implied by their comments that it was a waste of time.

If Jesus in his short life and extremely brief ministry considered it absolutely essential to take time for quiet communion with his Father—on the mountain top, early in the morning, or at the seaside—away from all, even his disciples, how ridiculously absurd for us to say or pretend that we "just don't have time." "Lord, teach us to pray."

The Lincoln Heights Story

ur new church in Lincoln Heights, kane, was dedicated March 15th. s is the fourth new building in the than 50 year history of this rch. The original building was a ll flat roofed temporary structure k on the alley. In 1914 the "old" rch was built during the ministry onathan Edwards. The Rev. G. B. rd built a social hall and youth ter during the early years of rld War II.

he "new" church has been con- cted adjacent to the existing old dings. Contemporary in style, it is n daring and inspiring. The sanc- y seats three hundred people and e is a spacious social hall in the ement with stage, crib room, kit- n and pastor's study adjoining. The er room is in a separate building ch will become a part of the fu- e education unit.

his beautiful church is an achieve- t of a congregation numbering when the building was started. enthusiasm generated by this ture raised not only the building, the size of the congregation as . With the admission of the "ded- ion class" on March 8th the mem- ship reached a record high of 240. value of the new building with niture is $116,000. (The total cash l out on it is $82,000). Over $34,000 provided in generous discounts (a of 100% such as the excavation) many hundreds of hours of vol- eer labor.

he church was started with a 000 loan from the Board of Home sions and was finished on the mise of a "completion type" loan $30,000 from the Standard Insur- e Co. of Portland, Oregon. The s of completing the building, how- , exceeded the $30,000 and the gregation was faced with the or- of raising $5,100 in cash above apart from all pledges in twelve s time. This was done when the rch voted to follow the suggestion ne of the young mothers of the rch who offered fifty dollars in if the hundred contributing fam- would "go and do likewise." he annual meeting eighteen fam- raised $1050. The pastor an- nced that during the day he had ived an anonymous gift of $1000 before the week was out another family said that they would put in the last $500. The remaining $3600 was received in cash on the second Sunday following the annual meeting.

The Eastern Washington and Northern Idaho Association attended the services of dedication on March 1st. Dr. Jackson Smith was the preacher for the occasion and Dr. Archie Hook presented the act of dedication. All of the former ministers of the church were asked to take part in the services. The Rev. Charles Williams preached at the morning services and the Rev. G. B. Baird shared through the Scripture and prayer. A Dedication Tea followed the afternoon service in the social hall.

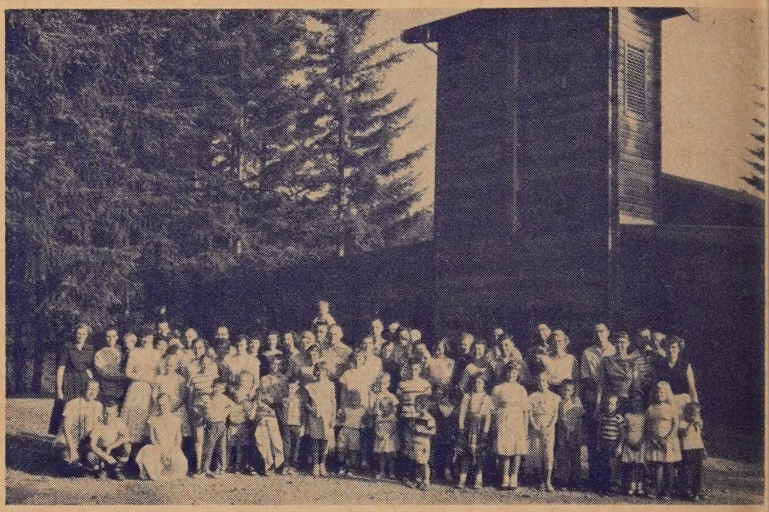
Dr. Ira Black of the Board of Missions chats with James Montgomery, Lincoln Heights minister.

"Scribes And Pharisees"

Any church that pretends to care for the souls of men, but is not interested in the slums that damn them, the city government that corrupts them, the economic order that cripples them, and the international relations that determine the destiny of innumerable souls, that kind of church, I think, would hear again the Master's withering words, "Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites."

—Harry Emerson Fosdick

REGISTER NOW FOR FAMILY CAMP



Families gather for picture at Pilgrim Firs Family Camp.

Deans of the three Family Camps for this summer are now working out the plans for this summer. Deans of the N-Sid-Sen period, August 8-15, are Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Watts of our Olivet Church. For the first Pilgrim Firs Camp, June 29-July 6, Mr. and Mrs. George Dvorak, University Church, are Deans; for the second, August 24-31, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Waggoner, University Church.

Family Camp at N-Sid-Sen this summer will be open to nine families and faculty; at Pilgrim Firs each period will take fifteen families and faculty. Family camp is a combination vacation and experience of living in a Christian Community. Except for a two-hour graded study period in the morning, the rest of the day can be spent in family activities.

The family rate for this year is $60.00, including a $10.00 registration fee, (plus insurance at 50c per family member). This cost includes camp fees, room and board for parents and all children under eighteen who are living at home.

Registration forms are now available from the Conference Office and after April 1st from your minister. Register early to avoid disappointment.

THE METOPIA BLOCKBINDER

The United Protestant Churches of Mesa and Eltopia, Washington

From the pastor's study

r Friends,

I am departing from the usual booklet format of our BLOCKBINDER month because I want to send you a couple of enclosures that I think will rest you. The first is a progress report by the Church Extension Committee the Washington Congregational Christian Conference, entitled "Thank for helping us build our church," in which our churches here in Mesa and pia figure prominently. This booklet comes to you, not to remind you of t nice guys the Congregationalists are since that is hardly an issue, but er to remind us all that our churches are not just isolated units. We are just A church; we are part of THE Church of Christ. What I hope that booklet will say to you is that while our ruler and master is none other n Jesus Christ, we have the support of our brethren in the faith.

I have discovered the notion among some of you that you should not e to church until you feel that you can support the church. Either this on is a lame excuse for denying yourself and your children the fruits of a wing, living faith, or else it is the result of a devilish misrepresentation our church and the Church in general. We could have waited until all the ntry around Mesa and Eltopia was developed and settled; we could have ted until everyone had his feet firmly planted under him; and then we ld have put in a church. But if this had been done, you would have been ied the ministry of the Lord through the Church at a time when you surely d it most, and your children would have grown up without ever having wn what a church is. No, the churches in Mesa and Eltopia were estab- ed in faith to help you guide your lives here in faith NOW. Whether your mmunities are going to be able to heal their wounds and become places re it is a pleasure to live, whether juvenile delinquency, alcoholism, divorce, mental disease are going to continue to be rare occurrences among you, largely depend on the use you make of your church NOW—what you e of it, and what it makes of you.

True, we need your support. We need every ounce of time, talent, and sure we can get from the willing hearts of our members and friends. But t of all, we need you, your presence and interest. You have no idea what r presence at morning worship means to us who have the church's interest the center of our lives. Do not let the fact that you cannot contribute erially keep you away; you contribute by your presence and interest, more n you will ever know. The church is here to serve you; if it were not that , the church would not be here at all. We have the support of friends and anizations who love us and are interested in us and who will help us suc- d in any way that they can . . . .

Sincerely yours,

George Allen

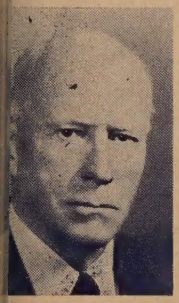
Registration cards a printed programs will be mailed churches early in April. First Chur will provide housing for all who ma their needs known through Pre-Reg tration.

Annual Meeting – May 5-6-7

National Moderator—Main Speaker

The Rev. Dr. Ray E. Phillips' election as Moderator of the General Council of the Congregational Christian Churches climaxed 40 years of distinguished social service in South Africa under the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. His most important contribution to the welfare of the underprivileged people of that country was the Jan H. Hofmeyr School of Social Work at Johannesburg which he directed from the day of its founding in 1940 until his recent departure from Africa. This school trains workers for 30 types of welfare service among non-Europeans and its graduates are in great demand throughout the country.



Ray E. Phillips

In his tireless efforts to better the lives of the less favored people, Ray Phillips introduced educational and recreational movies to South Africa's evil-breeding mine compounds, founded a Pathfinder movement that became a Boy Scout organization of 5,000, started the Bantu Men's Social Center, similar to our Y.M.C.A., and served on countless committees, commissions and boards concerned with troublesome social problems.

One of the most interesting of his many social service roles was that of "mayor" of the Moroka Emergency Camp, a shanty community of 75,000 non-whites on the outskirts of Johannesburg. His official title was chairman of the town council.

Among Dr. and Mrs. Phillips' many warm friends and supporters in South Africa is Alan Paton, the novelist, who has done some of his writing while a guest in their home. Dr. Phillips, a top authority on the interracial problems of the country and known throughout South Africa as a staunch friend of its less favored people—Indians, Coloreds (mixed blood) and Africans—is a prolific writer on the country's racial issues. He is the author of three important books on the subject, "The Bantu Are Coming," "The Bantu in the City" and "The Crux of the Race Problem." He is now working on a fourth book dealing with the increasing complexities of South Africa's racial conflicts.

Emma Frater Scholarship Fund

"Because of the great need of the Church to have adequately trained leaders and to provide incentive for promising young people to enter into full-time religious work . . . the establishment of a Scholarship Fund was thought to be of inestimable value"—so the Women's Fellowship of the University Congregational Church said in establishing the Emma Frater Scholarship Fund.

The scholarships provide the first year's tuition at a graduate center of learning in the field of Theology or Religious Education. Applications from students who are either members of Pilgrim Club, the Congregational student religious group at the University of Washington, or of the University Congregational Church are considered first. However, if there are no candidates from either of these groups — then the candidates are sought from among the larger fellowship of the Congregational Christian Churches. Last year two scholarships were awarded. The winners were Keith Rader now studying at Andover Newton Theological Seminary, and Dorothea Liere of the Pacific School of Religion.

Any young person who meets the basic requirements of having "received a B.A. or equivalent degree and been accepted in an accredited Graduate School of Theology" and needing such financial help may apply for the Scholarship by contacting Rev. Mineo Katagiri at Pilgrim Club, 1514 East 45th St., Seattle 5. The deadline for receiving applications for this year is April 30.

Construction Begun on Educational Unit

Early in February, ground was broken for the erection of the Educational wing for the Yakima Church. The two story unit when completed will begin to provide badly needed facilities for all the Church School. The total cost of the building will be in excess of $50,000 not including the volunteer labor that will be used to complete it. The minister, Paul Donavan, reports that it is anticipated the new unit will be ready for use this fall.

Unique Theme For Senior Highs

HOW do you decide?
How DO you decide?
How do YOU decide?
How do you DECIDE?

Regardless of where you put the accent, this is a major question for all Teen-agers. The three hundred senior high young people who will be attending the Conference April 3-5 at Westminster, Spokane, and April 10-12 at Everett, will have the privilege of hearing this theme discussed by Dr. Daniel B. Wessler, the Conference Keynoter.

Dr. Wessler is the University Pastor at Westminster House (Presbyterian, Congregational, Evangelical and Reformed), at Oregon State College. He is a graduate of San Francisco Theological Seminary and has his Ph. D. from St. Andrews University. Dr. Wessler also teaches in the Religion and Philosophy Department of Oregon State College.

At the present time he is also serving as member and secretary of the Interim Committee on Migratory Labor Problems of the Oregon State Legislature and is a member of the Board of Directors of the Council of Churches.

Dr. Wessler will address each of the conferences three times and will moderate the forum and question periods. Other highlights of the Conferences which open with dinner on Friday and close after morning worship on Sunday will be the election of the new Conference chairmen, the presentation of the Summer Camp program, singing and worship. Those now in grades 10-11-12 are eligible to attend. Total cost of the Conferences is $5.50.

The EVANGELISM Advocate

Volume One, Number One of a new joint publication of the United Church of Christ recently appeared as "The Evangelism Advocate". It is a merging of the former "Evangelism Newsletter" of that Department in our Board of Home Missions and the "Advocate" published for some time by the Evangelism Commission of the Evangelical and Reformed Church.

The first issue interests us of this Conference particularly because lead article was written by Seattl James Gilliom, minister of the Bro view Community Church, on the s ject of reaching and winning c munity people and how it works Broadview Church. Another excel article tells about the healing serv held in St. Peter's Church in Pi burgh where the author minist Rev. Charles V. Lee of our Gr Plains mid-west ministry writes fruitful working with small group

The members of our Confere Committee on Evangelism are alre on the regular mailing list of t new channel of value, and sam copies can be seen at the Confere Office. It is to be published five tin a year. If you are interested in ceiving it regularly write to Edi Rev. Fred C. Schweinfurth, 2969 W 25th St., Cleveland 13, Ohio.

Conference Ministers Are Guest Leaders

Two of Seattle's ministers p vided leadership to our wider felic ship this past month. Dr. Dale T ner, minister of University Chur represented the denomination for t eighth year at Olivet (Michigan), c of our church related colleges, for observance of Religious Empha Week and Founders' Day. Dale w also one of the main speakers at t United Christian Youth Moveme Conference in Everett. Dr. Martin Goslin, minister of Plymouth Seatt was the keynote speaker at the Or gon Conference Pilgrim Fellowsh annual meeting with over 350 you people and adults in attendance.

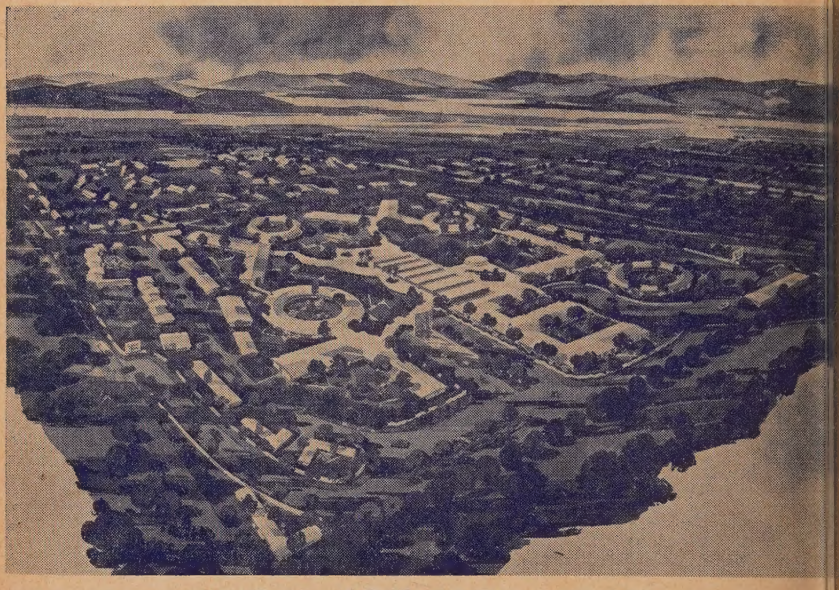
CHURCH PLANS $3 MILLION HOME FOR AGED
Work On First Unit To Start Early In 1959



Artist's Drawing of California's Congregational Homes

Groundbreaking for the $3,000,000 Congregational Homes project, a north Pomona, California, community of residences for 275 persons of retirement age, is scheduled for April. The initial development of 16 acres just over the Claremont line and readily accessible to the churches, colleges, and stores of Claremont, was announced by Otto C. Knudsen of Redlands, president.

Dr. Albert D. Stauffacher, minister emeritus of the Claremont Church and former secretary of Missions Council and a vice president of Pilgrim Place, has been released from his duties to act as Director of Admissions for the development. Dr. Stauffacher has established an office at 358 W. 4th St., Claremont, open daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Inquiries may be directed to him at this address.

Dr. Harold G. Jones, pastor of the Claremont Church and Chairman of the Public Relations Committee, said Congregational Homes would be as large as any Congregational sponsored retirement project of its kind. In terms of finances, he said it would be larger. Congregationalists have other homes for retired persons Illinois and Iowa, but the Pom development will be the first in C ifornia.

The idea for Congregational Hor was first expressed by Miss Anna Petersen retired Claremont sch teacher, who left money toward development in her will. The Cla mont Church established a Welf Committee to explore the possibili and after extensive studies under leadership of Prof. Charles Fitts, Congregational Conference of Sou ern California and the Southw agreed to sponsor the project.

The accommodation, or entra fee, will vary with the type, size a location of the living unit selected will include the use of indoor fac ties and congregate equipment a furnishings. The care and service will provide for meals, basic u upkeep, administration, opera maintenance, debt service costs, ut ties and medical care, hospital a surgical. Applicants must be reas ably ambulatory and in reasona good health. A qualifying physi examination is required. They must at least 60 years of age.

OCWM REPORTS

Our Conference OCWM Committee reports that a large number our churches are including Missions programs in their regularly heduled church events. From a survey of Seattle area churches e committee has gathered the following information.

Green Lake Church had four Sunday afternoons on the Middle st—a speaker based on the primary book sources and materials, panel presentation of Islam, a speaker on what we are doing in e Middle East, and a Festival Session. Columbia Church had a ries dealing with materials in "Personal Reports" and "Mission day".

Keystone and Prospect Churches each had a Mid-East dinner th the decorations, costumes, program and other features based this mission theme. Keystone's tables represented eight coun-es, with speakers at each briefly presenting that mission project. untleroy Church had a six weeks evening school of missions in ich the concerns of the Church's total mission were emphasized.

Plymouth Church has emphasized, among other things, defi-e commitments to particular fields, such as Bishop Rodriguez of e Philippines, Emma Noreen of Davao City, the Fort Berthold lians in North Dakota, and Dr. Ruth Catton's work in India. The ymouth Missions Committee distributes news from OCWM fields parishioners.

Alki Church has just created a Board of Christian Concern, ich includes chairmen from Missions, Social Action and Welfare mmittees. University Church has been encouraging memorial ts for Our Christian World Mission.

Our excellent new films on this year's mission themes "Mid-st Profile" and "North American Neighbors" are still available m Audio-Visual Center for a $1.50 service charge.
